Comments: Options Skills provide gas, plumbing and electrical training courses for mature students, whether they are existing tradespeople, career changers, property developers or private landlords.

With fully-equipped training centres in Birmingham, Manchester, North London and South London, we deliver our training courses to people from across the UK.

Our courses have been designed and developed to follow a robust three-step delivery process and allow students the chance to gain industry-recognised qualifications.

We cater for a range of people from new entrants with no experience to time-served operatives and ex-armed forces personnel.

At Options Skills, we provide our students with the training they need to gain the experience and qualifications required to launch careers within the trades industry, and we support them every step of the way.
