Excellent service as always from RJ Mitchell

R J Mitchell were the plumbing and heating contractors for a comprehensive refurbishment scheme which we've recently completed on our house. The standard of work; level of care; and attention to detail was excellent throughout the project. They liaised really well with our other contractors and were always very helpful. They were a pleasure to deal with and we would thoroughly recommend them.

Excellent. The only plumber I would use.

John Mitchell replaced our gas boiler and ten old radiators. He also replaced old skirting radiators in two other rooms which involved new plumbing and drilling through 10 inches of concrete from the garage below. A larger gas supply pipe from the meter also was required involving lifting and replacing a long row of paving slabs by our front door. All this work was completed efficiently, to a high standard, cheerfully and according to plan. Everyone involved from RJ Mitchell and Son was cheerful and helpful. I would definitely highly recommend this firm to anyone contemplating central heating work. They could not have done better.
